

We Share A Lot With Gorillas

By Romeo J., Age 9

Gorillas are my favorite animal because they represent my personality. Gorillas represent a lot of things that I do. They can be violent - - because people bother them and invade their habitat.

Gorillas take good care of their babies so we share that with them. They are one of the strongest animals and they are special because they cuddle at night. They are loving - - and they love us, even if sometimes people want to hurt them.

Gorillas are dying and that makes me sad. Humans are gorilla's biggest threat. We need to learn more from them about loyalty, love, and majesty.

People should respect Gorillas, or ANY animal, with how they want to be treated.

Builders of the New World

A Theatre and Education Program

Today, over 29,000 homeless children in New York City are dealing with difficult issues of transience and instability.

For 29 years, Builders of the New World has helped thousands of our most vulnerable young New Yorkers, providing hot nutritious meals and life-changing classes taught by The Actors Theatre Workshop's Artistic Director and Founder Thurman E. Scott.

In Builders of the New World, we teach the children ATW's original theatre and education techniques that improve their reading, writing, and presentation skills. They learn to have an intention in life and draw and write about their visions for the future.

Kindness to Our World

By Penelope C., Age 8

This is a drawing of my imaginary world where the forest and the beach coexist.

In this special place live a group of animals of all kinds. They live in harmony and peace as they should.

Sadly, you can also see that some humans have been harming their ecosystem. They come into their beautiful town and cut down their trees with machines.

The innocent animals are terrified and helpless because their houses are being destroyed. In that moment their strength and loyalty for each other take over their powerful bodies. The humans are surprised and scared to see the animals fighting back with their intelligent bodies and loud noises.

This is the day humans learn the most important lesson of their lives. To respect the animals, because they never give up when they have to fight for their families and homes. They will always find the courage to fight for their community.

Animal's souls, like Unconditional Love, can never be destroyed.

The Dolphin and the Man

By Jeremi C., Age 8

Once upon a time, there was a dolphin named Chris swimming in the ocean. Then Chris saw a person throwing trash into the water.

Chris yelled “Stop throwing trash into the ocean! Trash kills animals and contaminates the water!”

It is dangerous to throw plastic bags into the ocean because it can choke sea animals like me!”

“I don’t care!” said the man. Chris swam home. REALLY SAD. The next day, someone gave the man a gift. It was a DOG! He was happy, because he always wanted a dog. He went out to buy dog food.

But when he got home, he saw something really bad. The dog was dead on the floor. Because of the garbage all over the house.

The man regretted telling the dolphin that he did not care about the garbage in the ocean. Because he realized how dangerous garbage can be to animals!

He learned to never throw garbage into the ocean ever again!

Octy the Octopus and Doly the Dolphin

By Belen K., Age 7

Octy the octopus always cares for every sea animal, and every human. Octy is helpful and thankful to others.

He met Doly the Dolphin and they became friends. The next day they decided to go on an adventure. They met a lot of cool fish, and one pufferfish. All of the fish were happy, because fish and the community are happy.

But then, he found an orca named Belly, who bit Octy and it hurt a lot. He had to go to the sea hospital because the bite was really big. But luckily he is okay. They went back home, and he got better. He took medicine, and after a few hours he got better and better and better. The bite got cured, and after he went for a hike with Doly.

Suddenly, they saw a clownfish that needed help. So they took him to the sea hospital. They found that it was the same orca Belly that bit Octy. Then they used the sea map to take the clownfish home and he said thank you. The next morning, the clownfish said he was okay and they all lived happily ever after.

Octy learned to be helpful to other people even if he doesn't know them.

So everybody, go and be like Octy!

Protecting Animals

By India P., Age 8

I drew 3 cats, cats have 230 bones, while humans only have 206 bones. They have extra organs that allows them to taste scents on the air why humans can smell only with their nose these three cats are safe and I wish other animals could be as safe as them. But they can't. But even if not all animals can be this safe some animals can be safe if we help them.

There are so many ways we can help the animals we can provide a home and food. Some people, of course, already have pets, don't want pets, or can't have them.

But if you find a stray cat or dog, you can always take them to an animal shelter where they will be looked after until they find a home.

Animals can teach humans how to be loyal, kind and brave. If humans see how kind, loyal and loving animals are they can teach us not to hurt each other.

Learning How to Keep the Ocean Safe

By John G., Age 8

Some teachers sometimes teach students about the ocean.

There are a lot of things in the ocean. So people thought that teachers needed help - - so they built an aquarium.

In the aquarium lived fish, coral and seagrass.

The fish asked the coral “Why do we have to be in this aquarium?” And the coral said “People put us here so people can learn to respect the ocean and not put plastic in it or harm the animals in the ocean.”

If you keep killing the animals in the ocean, it will be hard for the teacher to teach the students.

People - - please stop killing the fish in the ocean!
